WINNING

#morethanthebanner

Winning the banner at your next show is a great goal to have, but did you know that having good character also makes you a winner? When you practice good character in and out of the ring, you set an example for those around you.

As you flip through the pages of this catalog, you will notice principles at the beginning of each section. These principles are inspired by Lodestar Guidance: Principles to Live and Lead, a program developed by Weaver Leather president and CEO Paul Weaver. Paul is committed to the value of leadership and the importance of developing tomorrow's leaders. After all, having good character is a major part of being a great leader.

Principles for Success

DILIGENCE: Persistently giving my best effort to complete a task

- From breaking, feeding, and daily care to training and honing your showmanship skills, showing livestock is no small task
- Set realistic goals, give your best effort to complete a task, and see your project through its entirety
- When you work hard to do these things, you will serve as a role model for younger showmen everywhere

KIRK STIERWALT

Since 1987, Kirk has been conducting clinics and demonstrations throughout the United States and Canada. Unafraid to share his secrets of success, Kirk inspires others to obtain the skills and techniques needed to thrive in the show ring, on farms and with breeding programs.

Fun Fact

Kirk did not grow up on a farm or ranch; he actually lived in town. His grandfather raised Hereford cattle, and Kirk was at the farm any chance he could get. This is where Kirk began to develop his skills. Eventually, he groomed and fitted animals to help pay for college.

"We all want the banner. That's our vision, our hope, our dream. But it's really about the journey of trying to do it all. That's the real winning to me."

"Showing cattle is identical to being on a sports team; you won't get to play if you don't go to practice."

BOB MAY

As an expert in breeding top quality cattle, Bob owns and operates Bob May Cattle Company. He works diligently to pair buyers with the right animal and educates exhibitors throughout their projects. He takes a personal interest in their success by checking in and tracking progress throughout the show season.

BROCK MAY

Working with his father at Bob May Cattle Company, Brock buys and sells breeding cattle and show steers. With a list of major wins under his belt — including the National Western, American Royal, and Wisconsin State Fair — the cattle industry is his life. He wants to pass on the tradition of what he has learned from his father to youth across the country and help them achieve their dreams.

What Adhesive Should I Use?

Light Adhesive

- Lightweight and flexible formula works well on soft, well-trained hair that requires less hold
- Perfect for novice fitters

69-2000 10 oz. (MSRP $7.75)

Medium Adhesive

- Builds volume and body while adding definition and shape to average, well-trained hair coats
- Recommended for novice to experienced fitters

69-2001 11 oz. (MSRP $7.75)

Strong Adhesive

- Long-lasting holding power with minimal to no fall down for short, stiff, stubborn hair
- Ideal for experienced fitters

69-2002 10 oz. (MSRP $7.75)

Firm Adhesive

- Maximum holding power for the stiffest, shortest, and most unruly of hair coats
- Perfect for experienced fitters who expect a high-performing, stout adhesive
- Quick-response formula with little to no fall down

69-2003 10 oz. (MSRP $7.75)

NO Paint,
NO Problem

The Choice is Clear!

Natural Hold

- Ideal holding power with a natural appearance
- Formulated for non-paint shows
- Quickly dries to a hard finish for easy clipping
- Perfect for a variety of hair types and fitting applications including legs, tailheads, tops, and flanks

69-2004 10 oz. (MSRP $7.75)

Our line of Stierwalt Adhesives DO NOT CONTAIN the cancer-causing agent METHYLENE CHLORIDE!

If you're struggling with flat body hair, use ProFoam daily to train the hair to lift naturally over time.

Stierwalt ProFoam

- Multipurpose grooming mousse is a must-have for training hair, clipping, and show day prep
- Provides hold while adding body to your calf's coat

69-2204 17.5 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

PROENHANCER...

WHAT EXACTLY IS THIS STUFF?!

It's not a powder

Containing no powder particles, ProEnhancer comes out as a clear liquid and dries white.

It's not paint

This product does not paint anything; in fact, it should be painted over. There are no artificial pigments, meaning it won't change the color of the paints you do choose to cover it with.

It's not an adhesive

ProEnhancer does not hold like an adhesive or glue.

It IS a leg builder

This product is sprayed onto the hair to fill in gaps that adhesive may miss to create a thicker, big-boned appearance.

Stierwalt ProEnhancer

- Increases the volume of leg hair by coating each shaft individually without clumping
- Its quick drying action allows you to easily clip and cover leg hair with touch up paint
- Must be used with adhesive
- Contains no artificial pigments

69-2205 10 oz. (MSRP $9.49)

#show hack

ProPowder settles when not in use, so be sure to shake the can well before spraying. The marble agitator in the can loosens and separates the particles for a nice, even spray that won't clump.

Use ProPowder Black for a deep, rich black thickening effect

Stierwalt ProPowder

- No other product on the market builds and thickens your animal's hair quite like ProPowder
- Enhances each individual hair for pronounced dimension
- Must be used with adhesive but can be used without paint

69-2206 ProPowder White 10 oz. (MSRP $9.75)

69-2207 ProPowder Black 10 oz. (MSRP $9.75)

Achieve the Perfect Black

A Two-Step Process combines the fastest-drying paint in the industry with the best black finishing paint on the market for maximum results.

STEP ONE

Stierwalt ProTouch Base Black

- Fastest-drying paint in the industry
- With its subtle building techniques and unique dryness, use as the first step in painting your calf
- Provides complete foundational coverage of the desired area without breaking down adhesives

69-2103 10 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

Cinnamon

69-2104 10 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

Fawn

69-2105 10 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

Smoke Gray

69-2108 10 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

Cream

69-2109 10 oz. (MSRP $8.75)

Dark Cherry touch up paint is perfect for dark to medium maroon-colored cattle.

Rust touch up paint is ideal for deeper red cattle breeds with a reddish cast.

Cinnamon touch up paint works great for darker red-colored cattle.

Fawn touch up paint is perfect for lighter shaded red to brown cattle breeds with a yellow cast.

Gray colored cattle are hard to match with a single paint color. The color variation you can achieve with this single paint is ideal for matching smokey grays from light to dark.

An ideal choice for cream colored or blonde cattle. Adding additional coats of this paint can achieve a darker shade, giving the ultimate flexibility for the perfect final look.

Why Weaver Leather Livestock Paints?

- Finer particles allow for an even spray pattern and more consistent coverage
- Helps to dry adhesive without breaking it down
- Hard-to-match calf? Blend two paints for the perfect color

Did You Know?

Hair products and topical medications can leave a greasy, waxy buildup on hair overtime. This buildup weighs hair down and dulls clipper blades more quickly. Washing your animal once a week with Degreasing Shampoo removes buildup the other shampoos can't, giving you a clean base for clipping and fitting.

Coconut Shampoo

What Comb Blades Should I Use?

With all the different cattle hair types out there, the wide selection of comb types can be confusing. Use this guide to help you choose the perfect one for your calf.

Show

The gentle design of this comb is perfect for both thick and thin coats of cattle to invigorate the hair follicles and skin to promote hair growth.

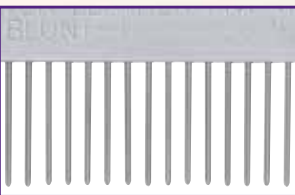

Fluffer

The longer teeth reach down to stimulate the undercoat while the shorter teeth help fluff the longer top hairs for greater pop and bloom.

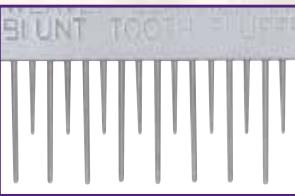

Skip Tooth

Ideal for thicker hair, the teeth on this comb are gentle on the hair coat to allow for reduced hair loss.

Blunt Tooth

Wider diameter of the teeth makes this comb easy and gentle on the hair coat.

Blunt Tooth Fluffer

The perfect combination of longer teeth that stimulate the hair coat and shorter teeth for pop and bloom, this comb features wider diameter teeth for gentleness to the hair coat.

Isn't a Comb Just a Comb?

The Differences Between PLASTIC & METAL

We asked ProStaffer Bob May his thoughts on combs to help you make the best selection.

So, why use plastic?

"Always take a plastic comb in the ring, never metal. Plastic combs are safer for you, your calf, and your fellow showmen and should always be carried with the teeth facing you."

- Bob May

Why would a showman want to use a metal comb?

"Metal combs are best used when clipping and fitting, especially for pulling up legs. However, they should never be taken into the ring due to safety concerns."

- Bob May

Do you have a favorite comb?

"Due to the current industry trend of lots of hair, my go-to comb is the fluffer in both metal and plastic. They are designed to reach deep while fluffing the top hair at the same time."

- Bob May

The Halter that Started it All

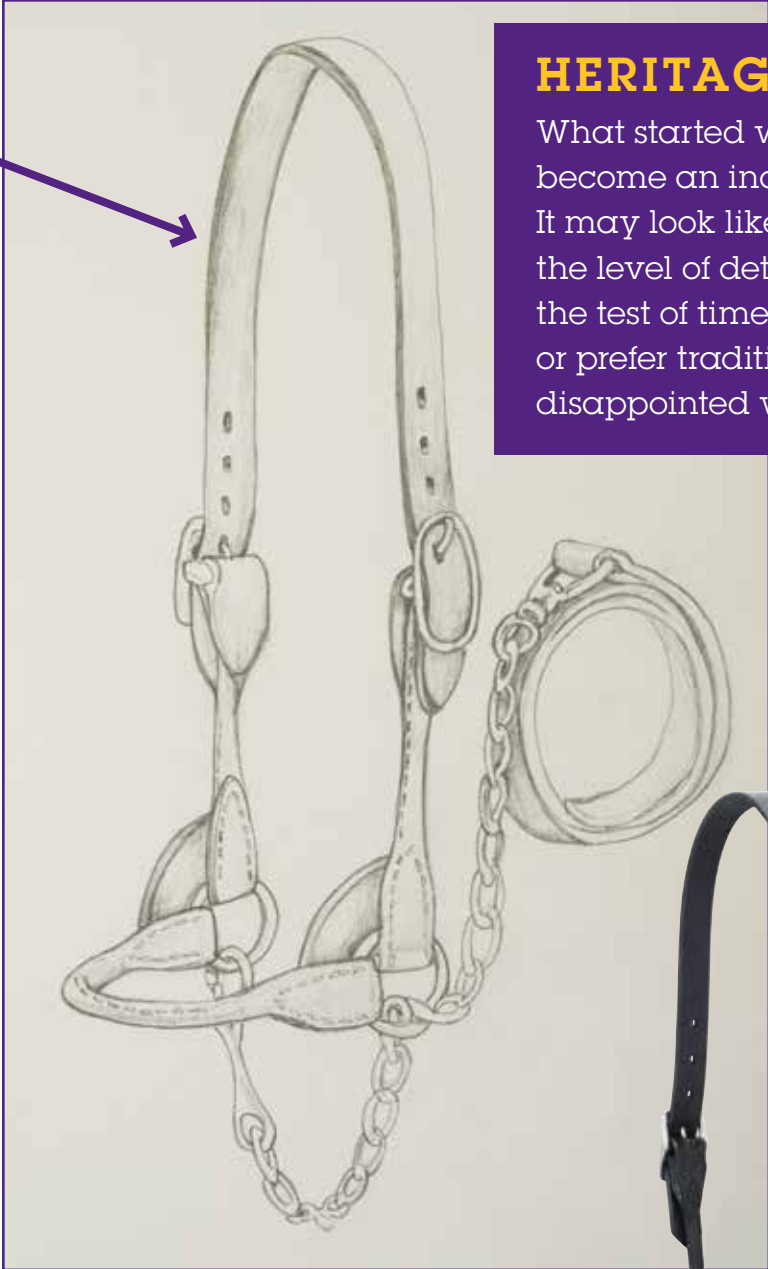

#ProTips

Kirk Stierwalt says, "Unfortunately, halters aren't one size fits all since your calf is constantly growing. So, it's important to get the right size halter for various stages of your calf's development...even more important to fit it properly. When you have a halter that fits right, your calf will perform better."

HERITAGE MATTERS.

What started with a simple sketch 45 years ago has become an industry go-to choice for show halters. It may look like an ordinary halter, but trust us, the level of detail is like none other and has stood the test of time. So, whether you're just starting out or prefer traditional style in the ring, you won't be disappointed with this Weaver original.

SHOW HALTER FIT: THINGS TO REMEMBER

Noseband Position:

The noseband should sit halfway between the nose and eyes so you get a straight pull. When a show halter is too big, it rides down onto your calf's nose and can shut off some of the air passage. At this point, you're basically leading your calf around by its nostrils, and you might have a fight on your hands!

Proper Fit:

Be careful how much excess leather you have at the crown buckles. If there is a significant amount extending past the crown buckles, your halter is probably too big.

Chain Snap:

Be sure the chain snap thumb release is facing out. This will ensure it won't come undone as your calf moves or jostles.

Lead Strap Length:

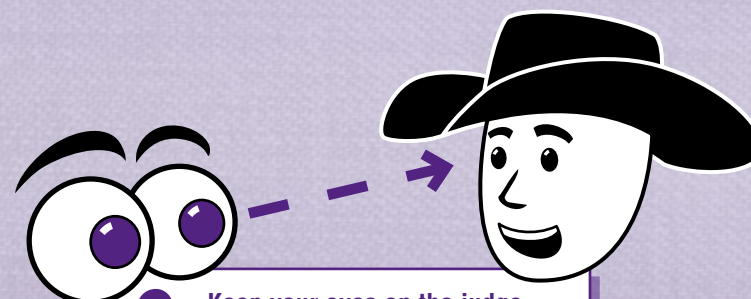

Cut lead strap off at about your knee. Cut it too short, and you won't be able to grab your lead with two hands if needed. Too long, and both you and your calf could step on it.

BE YOUR BEST: 5 Things to Remember about Showmanship

Now is the time you've been preparing for. All of your hard work prior to the show is going to be put to the test. Being a little nervous is natural. Take some deep breaths and reassure yourself that you're ready. Remaining calm and confident will help both you and your calf have a better performance in the ring. The following are important tips to keep in mind for showmanship.

- 1. If you are able, watch a class or two before yours to see what the judge is looking for and what style showman he or she prefers.

- 2. Keep your eyes on the judge and always be aware of where he or she is. Good eye contact is a sign of confidence and respect.

- 3. The judge may touch your calf, so you will need to fix the hair with your comb. Do so only when the judge has moved on to the next calf in line.

- 4. Judges often like to ask questions about your calf's faults, strengths, feeding regimen, and breeding, so be prepared. A common question judges like to ask is, "What would you change about your calf if you could?"

- 5. Don't stop showing until the judge's decision is final.

Finding the Right Lead for You and Your Calf

Cattle leads have come a long way since the standard link chain. There are now more options than ever that are beneficial to both you and your calf.

Covered Chain Leads

YOU:

No more do you have to grip a harsh chain. Covered leads are comfortable in your hand and provide more grip, especially when your hands get sweaty.

CALF:

If your calf is sensitive to the sound and feel of a chain, a covered lead will be quieter and smoother to help keep your calf calmer.

Pronged Leads

YOU:

It can be hard to keep a heavy headed calf's head up, especially if you are a younger exhibitor. The blunt prongs help keep your calf's head at show height with less effort and more leverage, giving you more control.

CALF:

Have a stubborn calf? A pronged chain will help keep its attention and encourages proper head position.

Strongest Show Stick on the Market!

Half the weight of aluminum but three times the strength, carbon fiber is the lightest and strongest per weight material. These are the most durable show sticks you'll find that are lighter in your hand for less fatigue.

Stierwalt Carbon Fiber Show Stick

- Known for its strength and lightweight properties, carbon fiber makes these show sticks great for professional showmen or any exhibitor wanting a lighter feel
- Classy, refined style provides a traditional show ring appearance

#ProTips

Kirk Stierwalt says, "It's probably better to go a hair too long when picking your show stick because you'll probably run into issues if it's too short."

Are you a young exhibitor or just plain short? Think you need a short show stick? Guess again! People often put a shorter show stick with a smaller exhibitor because it looks balanced and proportional, but the opposite is true. You actually need a longer stick so you can reach your calf's loin and hind hoof better. If you're tall, however, you should stick in the medium to large range.

Stick Calm

- Slides on the end of your show stick to aid in calming your animal in the show ring
- Three rows of staggered teeth provide massaging action
- Perfect for cattle sensitive to a show stick's metal hook
- Also great to relax animal during clipping

5 Steps to Achieving the Perfect Topline on Dairy Cattle

STEP ONE

To get the topline of your cow to stand, blow the hair up by holding your blower at a slight angle against the topline. Be sure to blow up from the sides rather than straight down the topline, and constantly move your blower so that you do not burn your animal. Use a topline brush and pull up as you blow the hair.

STEP TWO

Once the hair is blown up, use a clipper to trim the topline. Be sure to use two hands on the clipper to help the steadiness. Clip the topline straight from the rump to the withers.

STEP THREE

After clipping, use scissors to fine-tune any areas you have stray hairs.

STEP FOUR

Finally, create a wedge shape by clipping the hair on both sides of the topline. Remember you can always clip off more hair, so start small. At the finish, the topline should be smooth, natural and well blended.

STEP FIVE

Wash your cow so that the clipped hair does not irritate her skin.

Principles for Success

ATTITUDE: The capacity to stay positive and optimistic despite the circumstances

- Be kind, helpful, and respectful in and out of the ring
- Wish your competitors good luck, and although winning your class is a great feeling, it may not always happen
- If you do not win, keep a positive attitude, be gracious, and congratulate the winner on a job well done; after all, you learn just as much from losing as you do from winning

Fun Fact
Chad actually grew up rodeoing and didn't show competitive livestock until he was in high school.

"Be sure to set realistic goals, and, with hard work, you will achieve them. Always keep in mind that livestock shows are not always about winning; more importantly, they are about the life lessons you learn and the quality time spent with family and friends."

The Complete Sheep Washing Process

When getting ready to shear, we suggest a 2-part washing and shearing strategy. Follow the steps to learn more about getting your sheep its cleanest and closest shear.

Find the Lister Legend Clipper & Blade Sets on page 211

WASHING ROUND 1

1.  Use a blower to blow out as much excess dirt as possible.
2.  Wet sheep from head to tail to remove additional dirt, lanolin, and grime. Make sure to close off ears when using water on the head and face.
3.  Work in Degreasing Shampoo with your hands.
4.  Rinse until soap is completely gone, remembering to close off the ears and make sure the nozzle pressure is not too hard.
5.  Use your hands to gently massage Conditioning Cream into the leg wool.
6.  Blow-dry the body from bottom to top with both motors on, but leave the body slightly damp. Do not blow the Conditioning Cream out of the legs.
7.  Now you're ready for a quick shear using clippers and fine blades.

CONGRATULATIONS!

You have successfully made it through round one of washing and shearing; however, we recommend going over sheep a second time.

WASHING ROUND 2

1.  Rinse legs that have had Conditioning Cream sitting in them, and blow out legs until fairly dry.
2.  Generously apply ProPolish to the legs and leave in.
3.  Pour 4 oz. Brightening Shampoo into a bucket, and fill with 3-4 inches of water. Be sure to create a lot of soap suds as you fill the bucket with water.
4.  Take a soft bristle brush and lightly brush suds on hide, working against the wool.
5.  Use a blower to blow out the suds and loosen/free up any remaining wool.
6.  Shear one more time using fine clipper or surgical blades.

WASHING 101:

What you never knew about washing

Washing your lamb can take a lot of time and effort. We sat down with Chad Charmasson to learn more about the do's and don'ts of washing your lamb.

Why shouldn't a lamb's body be washed frequently?

"After the initial washing and shearing, it is important to protect the natural oils and lanolin in the hide. Overwashing leads to hide dryness and skin issues."

- Chad Charmasson

Do you really need to wash your lamb if you are just going to shear the wool?

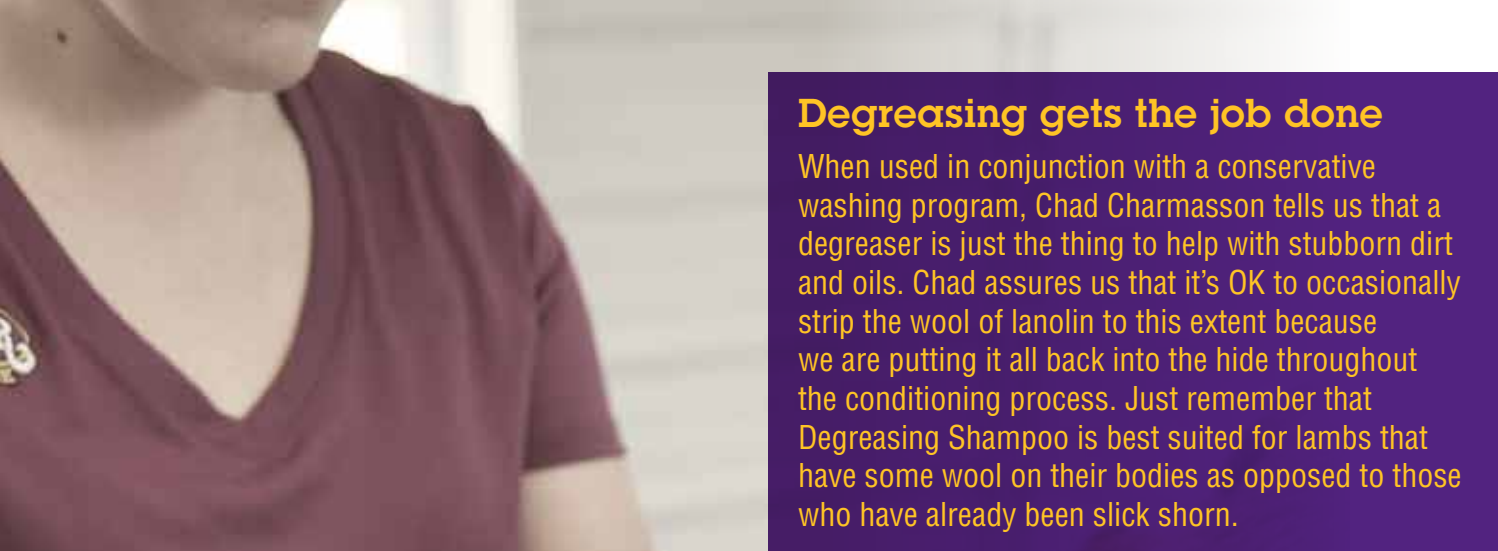

"Yes! Washing before shearing helps cut the dirt, grease and lanolin. Passing on this step will make it really hard to get clipper blades through the wool, resulting in uneven wool or dulled blades."

- Chad Charmasson

Can the legs be washed more frequently?

"While it isn't ideal to overwash the body of sheep, washing the legs more frequently and even on a semi-daily basis to train the leg wool and practice fitting is just fine. The legs have less lanolin in the wool and, therefore, are not as prone to the threat of overwashing. Don't wash without conditioning."

- Chad Charmasson

Degreasing gets the job done

When used in conjunction with a conservative washing program, Chad Charmasson tells us that a degreaser is just the thing to help with stubborn dirt and oils. Chad assures us that it's OK to occasionally strip the wool of lanolin to this extent because we are putting it all back into the hide throughout the conditioning process. Just remember that Degreasing Shampoo is best suited for lambs that have some wool on their bodies as opposed to those who have already been slick shorn.

Degreasing Shampoo

- Replace dish soap with shampoo specifically designed with livestock in mind
- Strips away grease and show day product but is mild on hide
- Keeps the hide free of unwanted organisms

Optical Enhancer...What's That?

Used to make white or colored surfaces appear more vibrant, it absorbs ultraviolet light, modifies the wavelength, then emits the light in a fluorescent fashion. You might notice a light, iridescent blueish-purple tint as you lather. Without an optical enhancer or UV inhibitor, the UVA rays will break down the chemical bonds in the hair pigments, making them appear dull over time.

Shag is here to stay!

The hottest look in sheep show rings can be seen in arenas across the country. We sat down with Chad Charmasson to learn more about shag – where it came from, how to get it, and how to keep it.

When did fitting sheep legs become so popular?

“While not completely new to the show industry, it has only been around for a few years. With sheep breeding and showing trends favoring Hampshire characteristics, sheep have a lot more shag. It only makes sense to use this shag to enhance the overall look of the lamb.”

- Chad Charmasson

Ok, since leg wool is so important, how do we get it?

“Cultivating shag often depends on the breed and genetics of the lamb, but there are a few things you can do to help wool growth.

- Make sure that you are washing the leg wool in cool water two to three times per week. Don't skip on conditioning the legs each time.
- Keep leg wool clean and protected. Dirty legs require more scrubbing and grooming, which can pull out or damage the shag on the leg.
- Work the wool in a natural, downward direction.
- Use leg wraps to ensure that sheep are not only staying clean but also so they cannot pull or bite at leg wool”

- Chad Charmasson

Why should showmen fit the legs?

“Simply put, leg wool gives sheep lots of eye appeal. This helps the animal look like it has a larger foot size and bigger bone. The lamb looks more balanced and appears to have a wider base. Also, shag will allow you the opportunity to clip the sheep to highlight strengths and minimize weaknesses. However, not every conformation issue can be solved with the presence of well-fit leg wool.”

- Chad Charmasson

Apply Hide Lotion to your lamb before blanketing it with a cotton tube. Leading up to show time, wet the tube as it dries out to revive the conditioning effects. Remove the tube before entering the ring to reveal a fresh and well-moisturized hide.

Deluxe Adjustable Sheep Muzzle

- Made of heavy-duty Cordura® material and vinyl coated mesh, this muzzle helps keep sheep from eating bedding, biting other animals, and wool picking while also providing breathability and access to water
- Nylon crown strap with adjustable slide and the improved rounded cone shape provide the perfect fit
- Cloth binding protects the edges and provides a finished look

65-2349 (MSRP $9.39)

Plastic Sheep Muzzle

- A removable inner shell with holes allows animal to drink while minimizing food intake and preventing dirt from collecting inside
- Flexible nylon shell stands up to heat and cold
- Weather-resistant Brahma Webb® straps are easy to clean and do not dry out or soak up lanolin like straps made of leather

65-2339 (MSRP $19.69)

Sheep Muzzle

- Designed to prevent animal from eating bedding and chewing
- Soft mesh construction features binding on the seams to cover any rough edges for added comfort
- Heavy-duty elastic V-shaped insert offers the perfect fit for most animals' jaws
- Elastic crown strap stretches for the right fit around the head

65-2342 (MSRP $6.89)

Sheep Leg Wraps

- This set of elastic leg wraps helps prevent animal from pulling, picking, and biting at legs
- Great for keeping leg wool clean and free from bedding, debris, or feces as well as maintaining softness and manageability for easy grooming, rinsing, and applying conditioning products
- Includes four 4" x 41" wraps and complete use and care instructions

35-8126 (MSRP $28.59)

Keeping legs clean and protected is easy with leg wraps. To get the ultimate protection, follow these steps:

- Unwrap and reroll each leg wrap so that the end that will be secured at the top of the leg faces inward.
- Start at the bottom of the leg, close to the hoof, and work upward toward the hock. Be sure not to wrap it tight.
- Make one complete wrap around the bottom of the leg so that the hook closure catches for a secure hold.
- Wrap around the leg, moving upward and making sure to overlap at least half the width of the wrap each time.
- Run the wrap all the way around the hock.
- For best results, allow the legs to breathe. We recommend leaving the wraps on for no longer than 48 hours at a time.

Good Showing Habits Start At Home

No one gets a well-broke, perfect standing or bracing sheep at the show without a lot of time and effort put in at home. Read below for important training tips. We recommend that you supervise your lamb during all parts of this process.

Halter Breaking to Lead

- Start while the lamb is small. Breaking a lamb is a lot of work, and the larger the lamb gets, the more difficult this can become.
- Work up to your lamb standing for about 30 minutes.
- Allow lamb to stand on a trimming stand and step off while supervised. This process allows lambs to learn the consequences of stepping off the stand.
- Encourage them to walk. Remember, two will usually walk better than one.
- Grab a friend and make halter breaking a two-person job – one to pull and one to push.
- Always keep the head at show ring height.
- Stay patient and keep practicing.

Bracing a Lamb

If you have a lamb that isn't prone to bracing, here are a few tips:

- Again, start small. Notice a pattern here? Good habits are easier to form when the animal is smaller.
- Try to move the lamb into the correct position. Make sure to stop correctly on the walk.
- If your lamb resists bracing, consider using a platform or a bracing table. Have your lamb back off a few times to understand what bracing feels like.
- Be consistent. Expect these behaviors out of your lamb on every walk. This will help it to learn what is expected when you stop.

Marking Harnesses

- Whether you prefer a nylon or leather chest piece construction, get a reliable breeding season performance from your rams and bucks with this Marking Harness
- Unique plate angle keeps marking crayons in place
- Quick-release buckles for handy fastening and adjustable nylon straps for a secure fit

- Designed for use with our Marking Harnesses
- Easily slide into place for a secure, reliable fit
- Choose from a variety of colors

35-7104 (MSRP $5.29)

Principles for Success

INFLUENCE: Producing change without force

- Throughout your show career, you will come across people who will affect, guide, and shape you as both a showman and a person
- You have the opportunity to influence your fellow competitors
- It's up to you whether you behave like someone credible or someone with questionable motives

Mike Harbour has been an accomplished show lamb and show goat producer for over 20 years. Growing up in southern New Mexico, Mike moved to Texas following high school graduation to pursue a college degree in animal science and compete on the collegiate livestock judging team. Following the completion of his master's degree, he spent 7½ years with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service as a county Extension agent. Mike is currently a full-time show goat and club lamb producer.

Fun Fact

Mike was instrumental in boosting the popularity of Boer goats in the U.S. Many goat producers' herds date back to Harbour Livestock.

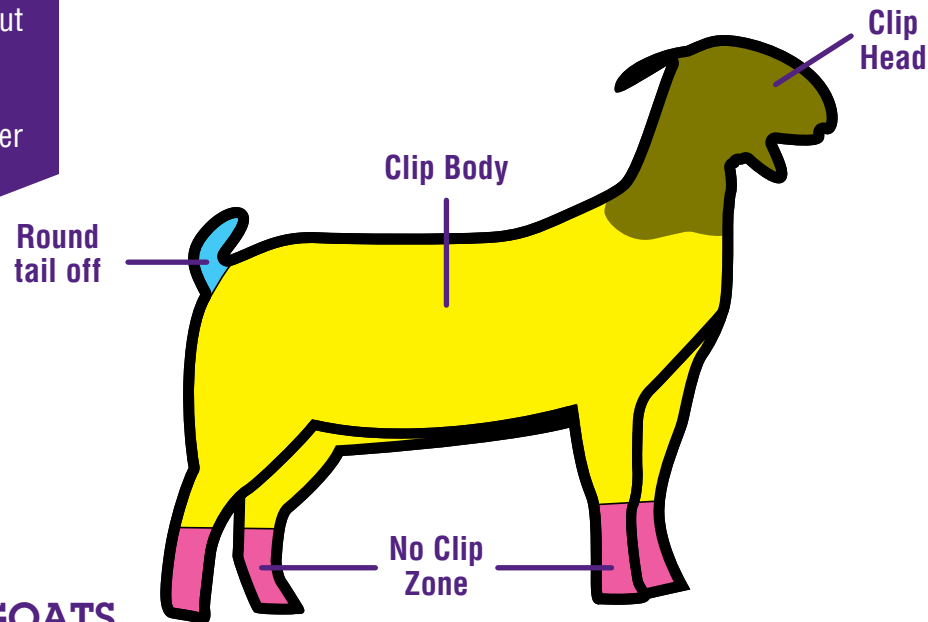

MIKE HARBOUR

"It's not about spending the most money on your animal or the fanciest barn. The key to this industry is tying yourself to people you can learn from. You need to live it, breathe it, and work for it every day. Iron sharpens iron."

How to Clip Your Goat Like a Pro

Clipping is a great way to achieve a polished look for show day, but some methods are better than others. Show off your goat's best features by using ProStaffer Mike Harbour's very own clipping techniques.

Remember: Start at the head and work your way towards the tail.

WETHER GOATS

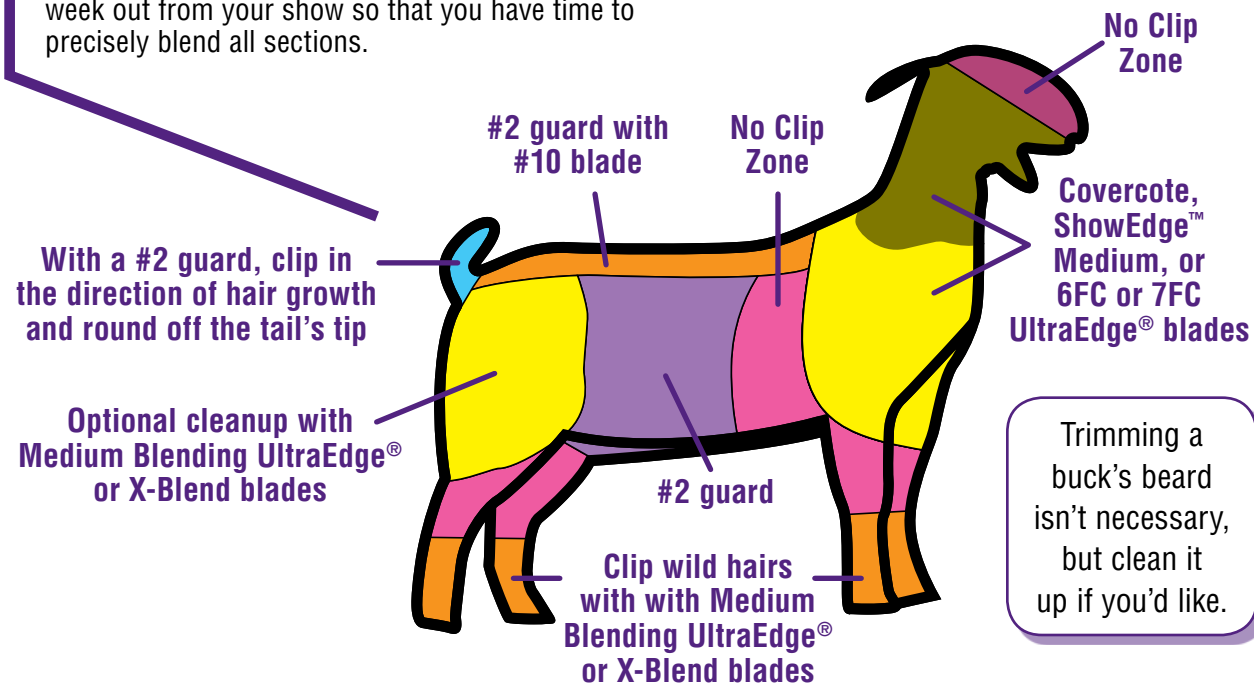

It's important for the judge to see the muscling in your market goat, so slick shearing the body is a must. Clip no more than 3 days before the show to ensure that hair is short and even.

Mike recommends the Lister Legend or Lister Star as a larger clipper or the Andis® Pulse ZR™ for a smaller clipper. Find these clippers and more starting on page 206.

BREEDING DOES & BUCKS

Because there isn't a need for these goats to be slick sheared, it's easier to enhance your goat's shape with strategic clipping. Start clipping about a week out from your show so that you have time to precisely blend all sections.

Avoid clipping the top of the nose to the base of the horns; a rounded head shape is desirable.

HONE IN YOUR CLIPPING KNOWLEDGE

From clipping to pulling up leg hair, fitting goats for shows has adapted and changed over the years. We pulled ProStaff team member Mike Harbour aside at a show to get his thoughts on some important things to remember when it comes to clipping your goat.

When should a goat be clipped before a show ?

“Clipping should be done at home. About one or two days out, you'll want to think about getting it done. This will give you a little time for mistakes to appear less obvious, especially if you're just learning to clip. You also don't want to clip the body at the show because it adds undue stress for your goat — and for you!”

- Mike Harbour

What blades do you recommend for showmen to clip their goats ?

“The most commonly used are covercote and medium blades; however, other blades may work as well. Be sure to check out Weaver's video at TheWinnersBrand.com/ProTips/Goats that talks about the different blades and what they're used for.”

- Mike Harbour

Now for the actual body clipping...do you have any basic tips for showmen ?

“On the top, chest floor, and underline, you'll want to keep it short while keeping it tight through the top, tail, and pin set. Be sure to leave the hair from the hocks and knees down.”

- Mike Harbour

Is there anything kids should do after clipping their goats ?

“You'll want to be sure to remove all of the excess hair with a blower and/or brush. Leaving the clipped hair on your goat can cause irritation, which can lead to rubbing and biting.”

LEG HAIR: IT'S A GOOD THING!

Make working and managing your goat's hair a daily task. When show day arrives, you'll be able to build the perfect leg.

At Home:

- While blowing ProHair100 (pg. 128) into the hair, use it as an opportunity to train the hair to stand in the right direction (see photo at right).
- Use the Mini Wide Range Brush and/or Mini Fluffer to get the hair going in an upward direction (pg. 134).
- Work the hair in a motion that wraps around and upward.
- After conditioning and training the hair, protect the legs with Goat Leg Wraps (pg. 140), remembering to follow important usage instructions.

At the Show:

- Wash and blow out goat, then apply Sheep & Goat Whitening Powder (pg. 131), allowing the powder plenty of time to dry.
- Using the Mini Wide Range Brush, pull up legs to get hair in the right direction and to separate hair fibers.
- Alternating with the Mini Fluffer, apply Light or Medium Adhesive (pg. 130). Remember to spray a little and comb a lot!
- Once adhesive is dry, clip through the legs to gradually blend the longer and shorter hairs.
- Shape the legs to provide the appearance of bigger bone.

3 BASIC STEPS TO CHAIN BREAKING YOUR GOAT

Using a chain to show Boer goats is pretty much a requirement these days, but why does it seem so easy for some people to train their goats with chains? It's true, your goat might resist when you first start, but with time and patience it does get better. The best way to train your goat? Start with the basics below.

1. Get your goat used to you by handling it from a young age. Start by tying your goat with a halter. Your goat will learn to respect the halter and tame down, eventually teaching it to walk naturally with something guiding it. While tied up, put the chain around your goat's neck to get it used to the feel. Just remember, never leave your goat unattended when they are tied up with a halter or chain.
2. Doing the above and gradually getting your goat used to the chain is extremely important. Once you've spent adequate time doing so, go ahead and practice leading your goat with the chain. Don't worry if your goat starts coughing or resisting. This is part of its way of adjusting to the chain and being led in a new way.
3. Practice, practice, practice. Walk, set and repeat.

HOW DO I KNOW WHICH CHAIN TO USE?

Finding the perfect chain can be difficult. Most importantly, remember to find one that is comfortable for both you and your goat. For you, be sure to pick one that's comfortable in the palm of your hand. For your goat, find one that is the right length so it's comfortable between the chain and the head of the goat. The long and short of it is that it needs to suit both you and your animal.

Principles for Success

DETERMINATION: Working intently to accomplish goals regardless of opposition

- Learning to train or fit an animal is a lot of work, but showmen with determination work intently to accomplish their goals despite obstacles
- Be intentional about the choices you make in the show ring, and make sure they line up with your values
- Successfully completing a task boosts confidence, increases skill, and helps you prepare for the next challenge

Fun Fact
Kent and his family are sports enthusiasts – especially basketball!

“Not everyone gets a trophy, and life is full of highs and lows. In the end, however, hard work, responsibility, dedication, and teamwork are all applicable skills that will transfer into real life.”

Exercise Matters

“When you first bring your pig home,” says ProStaffer Kent Bennington, “it is important to create a bond and let the pig become adjusted to its surroundings – including you.”

Here are some other pointers Kent has to offer:

- Walking your pig at home should start about 60 days out, typically for 5-10 minutes each day
- At first, working your pig in a group (with at least two others) will help put your pig at ease
- Thirty days out from show time is when your pig’s stamina should be worked up enough to start working it twice each day, for a total of 30 minutes
- Don’t allow your pig to root, and be sure to teach it to walk with its head in a natural position
- Morning and evening are the best times of the day to exercise your hog to avoid unnecessary stress due to heat

Showmanship Success in 7 Quick Tips

1. Show every angle of your hog, remembering to always keep the hog between you and the judge; judges appreciate a showman who will move around the animal to show its features
2. When working your hog, place yourself or position your body at the ham-loin junction
3. Never crowd the judge, and keep about 10 feet between you and the judge
4. Keep your hands off the hog unless you’re trying to move it off the rail
5. Keep your pig moving at a steady and consistent pace... not too slow, but not too fast either
6. Make sure your pig’s head is up in a natural position where it isn’t rooting
7. Most importantly, have fun and enjoy what you’re doing

Pipe or Whip... What Should I Use?

Kent Bennington wants to help you choose.

So, if both are acceptable, why would a showman want to use a whip?

“Whips are lightweight and functional with a slick design that allows you to control your pig with ease. They are great for well-trained pigs that are easy to handle.”

- Kent Bennington

Why is it important to choose the right pig whip or pig pipe?

“The tool you choose in the ring plays an important role in your success as a showman. Remember that different pigs call for different tools.”

- Kent Bennington

What about pig pipes... when is it best to use them?

“Pipes are heavier and sturdier to provide the most control with less flexibility. They're perfect for hard-to-handle pigs with less training.”

- Kent Bennington

Attention: We recommend using special care when packing showboxes with heavy items. Overloading the shelves, drawers and trays can cause them to buckle, bend or otherwise malfunction due to excessive weight. Heavier items like blowers, clippers and gallon products are best when stored on the bottom shelf of dolly showboxes. Also, be sure to use caution when loading doors of dolly showboxes, as sagging, bending or warping of doors or hinges may occur with excess weight. Always pack items tightly in showbox to help prevent jarring of contents when hauling.

INNOVATION MATTERS.

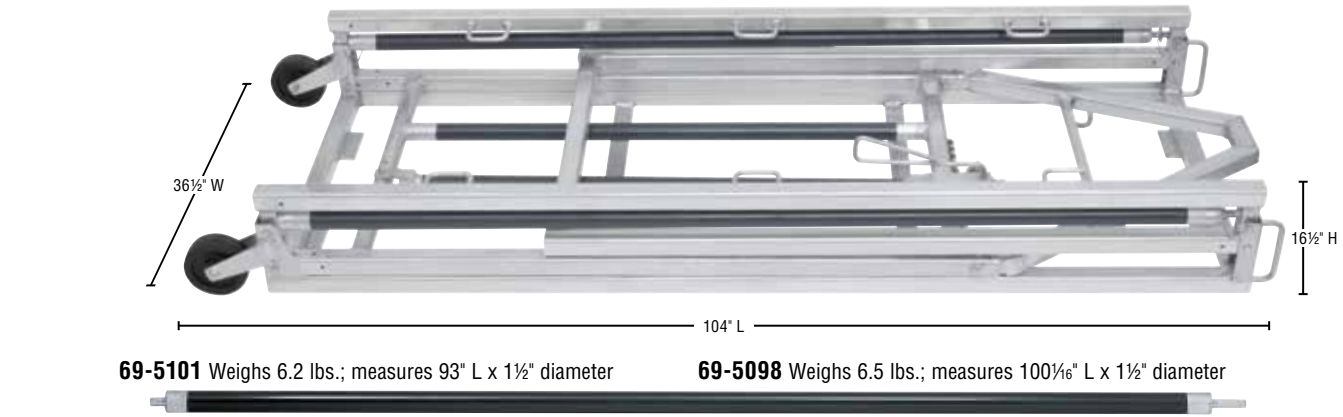

Once you see our Stierwalt Cattle Chutes, you'll know why they've taken the industry by storm! With the help of the fitting expert himself, Kirk Stierwalt, we designed these chutes with you and your cattle in mind. For you, we made these fully collapsible, easy-to-assemble chutes from lightweight aluminum that's simple to haul and maneuver. For your cattle, details like rounded side bars and head lock make these chutes safer and more comfortable. Check out all of the great features of these fitting workhorses below. You'll be glad you did!

Kirk Stierwalt Professional Cattle Chutes

- Weaver Leather Livestock worked closely with Kirk Stierwalt to develop these self-contained all aluminum chutes
- Fully collapsible, with the side bars, top bars and head piece fitting securely within the base for easy transportation and storage
- Powder coated side bars and head lock prevent any oxidized aluminum from rubbing off
- Spring loaded side bars for easy removal and adjustment
- Chute locking pins for security during transportation
- Head lock features strong springs and a rounded handle for easy positioning
- Rounded bottom cross bar of head lock sits lower than other chutes for safety of the animal and to help prevent damage to fitted hair should the hoof or leg go over the bar

Attention: We recommend carts be securely tied down when transporting in a truck or trailer as jarring may cause cart to tip over and cause damage. Always park cart on a level surface to help prevent tipping and bolt fans securely in place. These carts will be heavy when loaded with fans/blowers. As a result, we recommend adults move them around, not children.

Principles for Success

PATIENCE: Waiting without complaint

- It is only natural to want to win the banner immediately, but patience makes you a better showman in the long run
- When you take the time to learn and practice, your accomplishments become more satisfying
- Patience reduces stress and anxiety, paving the way for better decision-making and better results

Principles for Success

INITIATIVE: Doing what needs to be done without being asked

- Doing what needs to be done – like chores or working with your animal – without being asked goes a long way toward being responsible
- Showmen with initiative come up with creative solutions when faced with obstacles and take appropriate action
- You have a greater likelihood of reaching your goals when you are personally motivated instead of waiting for others' enthusiasm and efforts

Adjustable Box Fan Holder

- A must-have in any barn, this heavy-duty nylon box fan holder helps maximize air circulation for increased comfort
- Accommodates most 20" box fans
- Quick release buckles and plastic slides for easy fastening and precise adjustment
- Tilt strap included for adjusting fan angle
- Box fan not included
